MEET DWIGHT:
BIG PAWS, BIG HEART!

Dwight is a big, handsome fellow who came to PAWS as an injured stray. With multiple wounds over his entire back, Dwight had to be quarantined for months while he healed, per Massachusetts requirements.

Initially, Dwight hid in his carrier, hissing and spitting at anyone who came too close. He was a total grouch for well over a month—until he started to feel better. Then, he turned into a teddy bear.

PAWS made sure he got a thorough check up from the vet. Plus, he was microchipped, neutered, and brought up to date with his vaccinations. Once his wounds healed, his beautiful coat really shone through.

Dwight loves to play and has big paws for smacking down strings or whatever toys you put in his way. Dinner time is Dwight's favorite part of the day: he loves to eat!

His personality is just as unique as his Applehead Siamese looks. He's very sweet and loves getting petted. Dwight also has a great voice, which he will use freely to capture your attention.

Dwight has recently completed his quarantine and recovery and is ready to find his forever home as someone's one and only.

Today is $5 Friday!

Whether a kitty needs a 4-month rabies quarantine or expensive surgeries, PAWS commits to doing what it takes to sure our felines are healthy and ready to be adopted. If you are able, your donation today will go a long way to help PAWS cover these extra care costs.
